Chairman's Message

The Australian Soccer Federation welcomes the Solomon Islands and Tahiti World Cup teams to our shores and thanks them for the hospitality they showed all members of the Coca-Cola Socceroos on their recent trips to their respective countries.

The Coca-Cola Socceroos' path to the World Cup is not an easy one, but if they can show the determination and dedication that we have seen from our youth teams over the last couple of years, then we have every chance of reaching the finals for the first time since 1974.

For the home and away series against Tahiti and the Solomon Islands, the Coca-Cola Socceroos will be made up of Australian based players - further example of the depth of talent that is available in Australia within the Coca-Cola Soccer League.

The Coca-Cola Socceroos' playing form this year has been impressive with series wins against Sweden and Croatia in Australia and a last minute (1-0) win against World Cup hosts United States.

Again the Australian Soccer Federation would like to publicly express its gratitude for the continued support of Coca-Cola South Pacific and the Victorian Health Promotion Foundation whose sponsorship is vital to the continued success of all Australian Soccer Federation teams.

Last, but certainly not least, a big vote of thanks must go to all Coca-Cola Socceroo supporters who have come out in force this year and we hope will continue to do so for the rest of our World Cup campaign.

THE DRUG OFFENSIVE

Australia's Pathway To The Land Of Opportunity

America has long been known as the land of opportunity, where people once went in search of their dreams. The Coca-Cola Socceroos' dream is to reach the finals of the World Cup to be staged in the United States of America in 1994 and if this dream becomes a reality Australian Soccer will never be the same again.

It has been eighteen years since Australia last qualified for the World Cup. That year the finals were held in West Germany where Australia was beaten by West and East Germany and drew with Chile. Since 1974 the Coca-Cola Socceroos have failed to get to the finals.

In 1981 Australia was beaten by New Zealand, failing to get past the Oceania region for the 1982 World Cup. In 1985, after qualifying in the Oceania-region, Australia was unable to get past Scotland to progress to the 1986 World Cup. After going down to Scotland at home 2-0, Australia was unlucky not to win in the return match at Olympic Park, Melbourne. The 1-1 draw was a great result, however not good enough to qualify.

In 1989, in front of a record crowd of 43,000 at the Sydney Football Stadium, Australia again missed qualification, this time for Italia '90, when they drew 1-1 with Israel. Although, again this was a good result, it wasn't good enough to qualify and Australia had to sit and watch another World Cup go by.

World Cup USA '94 will be the biggest sporting event ever staged and if Australia is among the final twenty four countries that are to compete in the U.S.A., the interest this would create in Australia would far outweigh the successes that the Coca-Cola Olyroos enjoyed from the Barcelona Olympics.

However, like the pioneers who headed to America to fulfil their dreams, the Coca-Cola Socceroos know that the road to the U.S.A. is a long and tough one.

If the Coca-Cola Socceroos succeed against Tahiti and the Solomon Islands, traditional rivals New Zealand await us in May 1993, for the Oceania decider. This is one series that Coca-Cola Socceroo Coach Eddie Thomson fears most, as the All Whites have stopped Australia twice before (1991 & 1989) from reaching the finals.

The winner of the Oceania region must then take on the runner-up of CONCACAF which comprises teams from North and Central America. The winner goes on to play the fourth placed South American team. All games are played on a home and away basis, where away goals count as double if goal aggregates are level after both games.

Paul Wade's Coca-Cola Socceroos now begin to plot their path to World Cup U.S.A. '94 where hopefully their dreams will come true in the land of opportunity.

Be there when Australia takes on the world in March '93

In '91 our Young Socceroos made it through to the semi-finals playing Portugal in front of a partisan crowd of 112,000 spectators. Their eventual 4th place medal was the first Australia had ever won in international competition.

In '93, the boot's on the other foot, when Australia hosts the 7th World Youth Championship — the 1993 FIFA Coca-Cola Cup. Sixteen nations will compete in matches played in Sydney, Melbourne, Brisbane, Adelaide and Canberra.

Can our Young Socceroos be the first team from a developing football nation to win the World Youth Cup — hitherto the domain of soccer giants like West Germany, Brazil and Argentina? Will you be there to cheer them on?

Make sure you don't miss out, because tickets will be scarce. Include your name on the Preferential Booking List by completing the Request Form below and mailing it right away. TAHITI – PEARL OF THE SOUTH SEAS WITHIN EASY REACH

Of all the Pacific resort destinations, the 130 islands of French Polynesia of which Tahiti is the gateway, conjure up visions of turquoise blue waters, lush vegetation, an amenable climate, all tinged with the French flair for life and living and history.

The news is that Tahiti is back in the preferences of Australian travellers and searchers for an idyllic getaway in the best tradition of island resorts.

Tahiti lies in the Southern Pacific Ocean midway between Australia and the US west coast, so allow about 6 hours flying time for any of the Qantas or Air New Zealand (slightly longer via Auckland) services which can whisk you off to this Polynesian paradise on any of their multiple flight choices each week.

There is also an extensive selection of accommodation packages offering everything from budget to first class hotels in Papeete (Tahiti's capital) to dreamy island "Fares" (pronounced Farase) on the distant island resorts also offering choices of budget, superior or first class accommodation. Special packages also cater for the interests of divers or other water based activities based on the abundant marine life of the lagoons and ocean waters.

In Tahiti and the nearby islands there are really only two seasons. With the cooling breezes of the Pacific, the climate is usually always sunny and pleasant, catering for the relaxing lifestyle and nightlife.

December to February each year is warm and moist in the range 28-30 degrees celsius. From March to November the weather is cooler and drier, in the range of 17 to 25 degrees celsius. The majority of the annual rainfall is in the February/March period.

Tahiti offers all manner of attractions. Just as the timeless paintings of Paul Gauguin highlighted the colour of the market places and the village life, the capital, Papeete, (population 24,000) offers unlimited choices of restaurants, bars and shopping ranging from the best that French duty free can offer to the local pearls, crafts and shell jewellery.

The best known resort islands, Moorea, Huahine, Ragiroa, Raiatea and the acclaimed Bora Bora offer white ribbons of sand, ringed by clusters of palms and a truly blood pressure reducing pace.

With the traditional Tahiti getaway season now rapidly approaching, Tahiti Tourism in Australia is launching a new promotional campaign in conjunction with the major international airlines and package destination operators. According to Tahiti Tourism "Tahiti still remains the most imagined island paradise in the world, even if it is currently experienced by a relatively few seekers of life's simple pleasures".

Great news for soccer

Australian Soccer enthusiasts will be pleased to learn that, commencing with the 1992/93 Coca-Cola Soccer League Season, there will be available for their pleasure a full colour glossy monthly Australian Soccer Magazine.

To be known as "SOCCER AUSTRALIA", it will be on sale at all newsagents in Australia, at all Coca-Cola Soccer League Clubs and through other selected outlets.

For greater convenience copies will also be available on reserved prepaid subscription.

"SOCCER AUSTRALIA" will also be posted to all 1700 soccer clubs in Australia for their information.

ASF
Australian Soccer Federation

"SOCCER AUSTRALIA will be instrumental in the further development of soccer building on its present high profile", stated Ian Holmes, Chief Executive Officer of the Australian Soccer Federation. "It will facilitate direct access for soccer supporters keeping them informed of major events, Australian Soccer Federation merchandise, general soccer news and all the lastest behind the scenes information on the Coca-Cola Soccer league", he said.

Soccer has always had a huge base of players, larger than any other team sport which has not manifested itself into supporters at the National level. "SOCCER AUSTRALIA" will bridge the the gap that currently exists between these two levels and the benefits will be there for all to see.

The first issue of "SOCCER AUSTRALIA will incorporate the Coca-Cola Soccer League Year Book and will be published in September 1992.

1992 In Review

Jason Polak - Coca-Cola Socceroos

In the lead up to these World Cup qualifiers the Coca-Cola Socceroos have taken on some of the great Soccer countries of the world; and succeeded.

In January the Coca-Cola Socceroos played a three (3) match Test Series against Sweden. After a scoreless draw in the first match at the Sydney Football Stadium, Australia went on to take the Series by winning both in Melbourne and Adelaide by 1-0 in each game. An impressive result against one of Europe's best Soccer nations.

After the success against Sweden, the Coca-Cola Socceroos went on a historic tour to the Americas where they played the United State for the first time. A week prior to this match, the United States had won the U.S. Cup Tournament where they beat Ireland and Portugal and drew with Italy. However, the Coca-Cola Socceroos proved too good for the World Cup hosts when a late goal by Warren Spink gave the Coca-Cola Socceroos a 1-0 win.

The tour continued to Argentina and Uruguay, but Australia was unable to match it with these giants of World Soccer going down 2-0 in both games. Despite these defeats, the tour provided invaluable experience that will be essential to the Coca-Cola Socceroos' World Cup campaign.

Australia Celebrates

July saw Croatia make a historic tour to Australia and again the Coca-Cola Socceroos showed the strength of Australian Soccer. After a 1-0 victory at Olympic Park in Melbourne, the Coca-Cola Socceroos scored an impressive 3-1 win at Hindmarsh Stadium in Adelaide. The final game at the Sydney Football Stadium ended in a scoreless draw but Australia took out the series 2-0.

The success of our Senior team coupled with the semi-final performance of both the Youth team at the World Youth Cup and the Coca-Cola Olyroos at the Olympics is further proof of just how far Australian Soccer has progressed. With further overseas teams planned to come to Australia, the Coca-Cola Socceroos will be able to continue the preparation required to qualify for World Cup U.S.A. '94. However, they must not lose sight of the task ahead and that is to win these vital opening qualifying matches.
